STATE OF VERMONT.—Be it remembered, that at a Probate Court, held at Middlebury, in and for the district of Addison, on the 7th day of January, A. D. 1855:

Jacob W. Conroy, administrator of the estate of

LEONARD DEMING,

late of said Middlebury, in said district, deceased, presents his petition in writing to the court praying for license to sell a piece of land thirty-five feet four inches in width, from the west end of the lot in the village of said Middlebury, which he occupied long and desired, at the time of his death, as his home lot, bounded on the north by the highway, west by the west line of said home lot, south by the south line of said lot, and east by a line parallel with the west line, and therein sets forth the amount of debts against said estate and the expenses of administration, and that the said piece of land is all the real estate of said deceased which has not been sold or set out to the widow and heirs of said deceased for dower and homestead, and that the personal estate is insufficient, and that it is necessary to sell the said piece of land for the purpose of defraying the debts of said deceased and expenses of administration. It is therefore ordered, that said petition be granted, by this Court, at the session thereof to be held at the office of the Register of this court, in said Middlebury, on Monday, the 4th day of February next, at ten o'clock in the forenoon, and that notices thereof be given to all persons interested, that they may appear and make their objection, if any they may have, to said license being granted, by publishing a certified copy of this order in the Middlebury Register, a newspaper printed at said Middlebury, three weeks successively previous to the sale of said court.
